MLA CITATION

Fundamentals

Generally, MLA citations follow the below format.

Contributor. Title. Secondary Contributors. Publication Information. Medium.

Contributor Information and Titles

The main contributors to the source, normally the authors, are placed before the title. If there is more than one author, then arrange the authors in the same order found in the source. Reverse only the name of the first author, and follow the rest in normal form.

One author	Smith, John K. Title .
Two authors	Smith, John K., and Tim Sampson. Title .
Three authors	Smith, John K., Tim Sampson, and Alex J. Hubbard. Title .
More than three authors	Smith, John K., et al. Title .

Sometimes the main contributor is not an author, but another contributor type, such as an editor for a book or conductor for a musical piece. In this instance, follow the contributor by an abbreviation of the contributor type (i.e. ed. or cond.). If plural, then change the abbreviation accordingly.

One editor	Smith, John K., ed. Title .
Two editors	Smith, John K., and Tim Sampson, eds. Title .
One conductor	Smith, John K., cond. Title .

Many sources have secondary contributors - individuals who added to the work outside the main contributors. This can include editors and translators for books and producers and screenplay writers for movies. Place secondary contributors after the title. Precede the name of the contributors with the abbreviation for the contributor type. For instance, "Ed." means "Edited by."

One editor	Smith, John. Title . Ed. Bill McCoy.
Two editors	Smith, John. Title . Ed. Bill McCoy and Tim Thomas.
One conductor and three producers	Smith, John. Title . Cond. Bill McCoy. Prod. Tim Thomas, Jane Horton, and Rex Bryant.

You may decide to emphasize the work, for example, when citing a live performance. In this instance, place all the contributors after the title. Authors and writers are preceded by the word "By."

One author and editor	Title . By John Smith. Ed. Bill McCoy.
-----------------------	---

Some sources may have corporate or group authors. Write these organizations where you would write the authors. If they are also publishers of the source, include it in the publication information as well.

Corporate author	Modern Language Association. Title .
Government author	Illinois Dept. of Industrial Relations. Title .

Some sources are found within other sources, such as a chapter in a book, or an article in a periodical. These rules apply both to the contributors of the chapter and book, or to the article.

Chapter author and editor
and two book compilers

Smith, John. "Chapter." Ed. Bill McCoy. Title. Comp. Russell Engels and Steve Simpson.

Author and translator of an article

Smith, John. "Chapter." Trans. Bill McCoy. Periodical Title.

Title Rules

Generally, capitalize all principal words as well as the first word and last word in the title. If citing a title for an entire source, such as a book or periodical title, place the title in italics. Place an article, essay, poem or short story within a larger work in quotes. If a novel or published independently, then place the title in italics.

Publication Information

After the title and contributor information comes the publication information. In MLA7, you must also list the publication medium (Print, Web) after the publication information. MLA7 abbreviates all months except for May, June and July. Below are different publication information templates.

Book

Last, First M. Title. City: Publisher, Year Published. Medium.

Journal

Last, First M. "Article." Title Volume.Issue (Year): Page(s). Medium.

Magazine

Last, First M. "Article." Title Date Month Year Published: Page(s). Medium.

Newspaper

Last, First M. "Article." Title [City] Date Month Year, Edition, Section: Page(s). Medium.

If you cannot find all publication information, use place holders “N.p., n.p., n.d.” which represents no place, no publisher, and no date. If there are no page numbers use “N. pag.” Capitalize the abbreviations appropriately based on where they are placed.

Additional Information

For less conventional source types, you can add descriptions about the source after the title. For example, you can add “Cartoon.” or “Map.” after the title of a cartoon or map to clarify to the reader what type of source you are citing.

When citing non-periodical sources, advanced information such as the edition and section come before the publication information. Series information comes after the medium description. See the fictional example below:

Smith, John. Power. Ed. Tom Riley. 5th ed. Vol 12. New York: Random, 2002. Print. Ser. 50.

*Note that all months in MLA are abbreviated except for May, June and July. For example, "February" is "Feb."

MLA Web Rules

When citing sources from the Internet, try adding as much of the following in the same sequence:

- 1. Contributor information
- 2. Title of work (quotes)
- 3. Title of overall website (italicized)
- 4. Version / Edition
- 5. Publisher or sponsor of website
- 6. Date of electronic publication
- 7. Medium of publication (web)
- 8. Date accessed

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
Contributors.	"Title."	Website.	Edition.	Website Publisher,	Date.	Web.	Date accessed.

Note that MLA7 does not require a URL. However, we encourage you to include it. Do so in angled brackets at the end of the citation.*

Sources Published Directly Online

Sources published directly online have no in-print originals, and therefore, it is important to include online publication information (i.e. the website publisher/sponsor and date of electronic publication). If unavailable, for online-only sources, MLA7 suggests writing "N.p, n.d." which means no publisher and no date, respectively.

Citing an article from an online only resource

Friedland, Lois. "Top 10 Natural and Wildlife Adventure Travel Trips." About.com. New York Times Company, 22 Sept. 2008. Web. 25 Sept. 2008.

Citing an entire website with no identifiable electronic publication date

EasyBib.com. ImagineEasy Solutions, n.d. Web. 8 May 2009.

Citing an article from an online-only resource

Chen, Stephanie. "Growing up is Hard with Mom in Prison" CNN.com. Cable News Network, 7 May 2009. Web. 8 May 2009.

Often, the publisher's name is the same as the name of the online newspaper.

Citing an article from an online newspaper

Shorto, Russell. "Going Dutch." New York Times. New York Times, 3 May 2009. Web. 8 May 2009.

* Note that newspaper and magazines websites are considered non-periodical, directly published online sources, even if they have in-print copies. Follow the published directly online format.

Glutzer, Richard and Anne Federlein. "Miles that Bind: Commuter Marriage and Family Strength." Michigan Family Review 12 (2007): 7-31. Web. 8 Apr. 2009.

Some online-only sources have publication information unique to its source type, such as online-only journals (volume & issue information). Follow the journal format and add information on the date accessed.

Sources Published Indirectly Online

As opposed to some sources published by a website (direct), other sources may be originally in print, or in another medium, and found online. Cite these sources as you would in their original form and then add as much relevant web information as possible (website title, publisher/sponsor, date of electronic publication, medium, and date accessed). However, because the source was not published by the website, you do not have to use the “N.p, n.d.” place holders if no website publisher or date of electronic publication is available.

Citing a book originally in print found online

Catton, Bruce. The Civil War. Boston: Houghton Mifflin Co., 2005. Google Book Search. Web. 15 May 2008.

Citing a newsletter found online with no page information

Puzzanchera, Charles. "Juvenile Arrests 2007." Juvenile Justice Bulletin (Apr. 2009): n. pag. National Criminal Justice Reference Service. Web. 8 May 2009.

Citing a video found online

West, Kanye. Amazing. Prod. Hype Williams. Roc-A-Fella Records, 2009. Youtube. Web. 8 Feb. 2009.

Citing a painting viewed online

Picasso, Pablo. Three Musicians. 1921. ArtQuotes.net. Web. 5 Apr. 2006.

Citing a musical recording listened to online, with no discernable manufacturer or date

Park, Obadiah. "Hey Ya." N.d. TheSixtyOne.com. Web. 10 Feb. 2007.

Citing a digital image

Hopper, Angie. Hedgehog. Digital image. Flickr. Yahoo! Inc., 22 July 2007. Web. 26 Feb. 2013.

Note in the above example that the source of the image (Flickr) is cited. If you find an image using a search engine, such as Google Images, make sure to identify the original source of the image.*

Citing an originally in-print journal article found in a database

Ahn, Hyunchul, and Kyoung-jae Kim. "Using Genetic Algorithms to Optimize Nearest Neighbors for Data Mining." Annals of Operations Research 263.1 (2008): 5-18. Academic Search Premier. Web. 25 Sept. 2008.

Sources found in online databases typically have been published elsewhere. Include as much of the original publication information as possible, and then add the database name, medium (web), and the date accessed.

MLA Parenthetical Citations

Why we use parenthetical / in-text citations

Researchers place brief parenthetical descriptions to acknowledge which parts of their paper reference particular sources. Generally, you want to provide the last name of the author and the specific page numbers of the source. If such information is already given in the body of the sentence, then exclude it from the parenthetical citation.

Place the parenthetical citation where there is a pause in the sentence - normally before the end of a sentence or a comma. The in-text citation will differ depending on how much information you provide within the sentence.

Example with author's name in text:

Johnson argues this point (12-13).

Example without author's name in text:

This point had already been argued (Johnson 12-13).

Citing sources with more than one author

If you use sources with the same author surnames, then include a first name initial. If the two sources have authors with the same initials, then include their full names.

(J. Johnson 12-13).

or

(John Johnson 12-13).

If there are two or three authors of the source, include their last names in the order they appear on the source.

(Smith, Wollensky, and Johnson 45).

If there are more than three authors, you can cite all the authors with their last name, or you can cite the first author followed by "et al." Follow what is shown the works cited list.

(Smith et al. 45).

Citing sources without an author

Some sources do not have authors or contributors - for instance, when you cite certain websites. Instead, refer to the name of the source in your parenthetical citation in place of the author. Shorten/abbreviate the name of the source but ensure that your reader can easily identify it in your bibliography (abbreviate the title starting with the same word in which it is alphabetized). Punctuate with quotations or italicize as you would in its bibliographic form (a book is italicized; an article is in quotes).

Double agents are still widely in use (Spies 12-15, 17).

With prices of energy at new highs, bikes have been increasingly used ("Alternative Transportation" 89).

Citing part of a work

When citing a specific part of a work, provide the relevant page or section identifier. This can include specific pages, sections, paragraphs or volumes. When the identifier is preceded by an abbreviation or word, place a comma between the identifier and the source reference.

Example of an entire volume of a multivolume work:

It is arguably the most innovative period in history (Webster, vol 4).

When citing a specific page(s) of a multivolume work, precede the page number by the volume number and a colon. Do not separate by a comma.

It was arguably the most innovative period in history (Webster 4:12-15).

Example of a chapter within a book (if no specific numbers can be referenced):

The electoral college undermines democracy (Sanders, "Government Injustices").

Example of an article in a periodical:

Allen claims there is an inverse correlation between higher taxes and patriotic feelings worldwide (B2).

Use "par." or "pars." when referring to specific paragraphs.

The marketing dollars of big studio films has overshadowed good indie movies (Anderson, pars. 12-34).

Citing group or corporate authors

In your parenthetical citation, cite a corporate author like you would a normal author. Preferably, incorporate the corporate author in your text instead of the parenthetical citation.

Facial transplants pose significant risk to the autoimmune system (American Medical Association 12-43).

As noted by the American Medical Association, facial transplants pose significant risk to the autoimmune system (12-43).

Citing an entire source

When citing an entire work, there are no specific page numbers to refer to. Therefore it is preferable to refer to the source within the text itself with either the author or the title of the source. For example:

Hartford suggests the Internet provides more distractions than it does information.

Citing multiple works by the same author

If you reference more than one source by the same author, distinguish the parenthetical citations by including the name of the source. Use a comma to separate the author from the source.

Wars can be economic catalysts (Friedman, World 77-80).

Industrialized nations are better equipped to rebound from recessions (Friedman, “High tides” 56).

Citing indirect sources

When an original source is unavailable, then cite the secondhand source – for instance, a lecture in a conference proceedings. When quoting or paraphrasing a quote, write “qtd. in” before the author and pages.

John Murray calls Tim Smith “interesting but egotistical” (qtd. in Jesrani 34).

Citing literary / classic and religious works

For works such as novels, plays and other classic works, it’s helpful to provide further identifying information along with the page information. Do this by adding a semicolon and then the identifying information following the page number.

(Tolstoy 5; pt. 2, ch. 3).

When citing classic poems and plays, replace page numbers with division numbers (part, book, scene, act). The below refers to book 10 line 5. Bear in mind the divisions and the way they are written can vary by source.

Fear plays a role in Homer's Odyssey (10.5).

The title of books in the Bible and other famous literary works should be abbreviated.

(New Jerusalem Bible, Gen. 2.6-9).

Placing parenthetical citations in direct quotations

When directly quoting a source, place the parenthetical citation after the quote. For example:

Sanders explains that economic woes are due to "the mortgage crisis and poor risk assessment" (20).

Place the parenthetical citation at the end of an indented quotation. There should be no period after the parenthetical citation. The last sentence of the indented quote should look like:

It's unclear whether multilateral tariffs are disruptive to bilateral talks. (Evert 30-31)

Citing online sources

Generally, follow the same principles of parenthetical citations. Refer to the author, and if possible, a permanent identifier that would be the same for any reader.

The economy will rebound with the new monetary policies (Smith).

Solar power will become the primary source of energy (Williams 2).

Citing online sources with no author

If there is no author, use the title that begins the citation, either the article or website title. Be sure it also takes the same formatting, i.e. articles are in quotes and website titles are italicized. Shorten/abbreviate the name of the source but ensure that your reader can easily identify it in your bibliography (abbreviate the title starting with the same word in which it is alphabetized).

Elephants are thought to be one of the smartest mammals (“Smart Elephants”).

Nineteen men and women were convicted (Salem Witchcraft Trials).

Ideally, when citing online sources, try to reference the source within your sentence, with either the author or the title to avoid writing a parenthetical citation.

What's Eating Gilbert Grape

Channels

Comedy | Drama

Description

Gilbert Grape (Depp) lives in Endora, a place where nothing much happens. The only time the local police have anything to do is when Gilbert's autistic brother Arnie (DiCaprio) tries to climb up the watertower. Taking care of Arnie is mostly Gilbert's task, which is pretty demanding, at least while he's working at the local grocery store. Then one day Becky (Lewis) and her grandmother pass through Endora and hit some car trouble. Gilbert falls in love with Becky, but problems in his private life begin to pile up.

Oprah Talks to Michelle Obama

©Oprah.com | From the April 2009 issue of O, The Oprah Magazine

The Exclusive O Interview

Our new First Lady on the surprises of life in the White House ("If you want pie, there's pie! If something breaks, it's fixed. In an hour")...the rules she's laid down for Malia and Sasha ("I want the kids to be treated like children, not little princesses")...and how she hopes to use "one of the best jobs in the world" to help women transform their lives.

On the second floor of the White House, the Yellow Oval Room—part of the First Family's private residence—offers a stunning view of the nation's capital. The Washington Monument stretches into the heavens. The Lincoln Memorial sits above the glassy water of the Reflecting Pool. In the distance, you can see the U.S. Capitol, where the world's attention was focused on January 20 as millions gathered to witness an event many had thought would never happen. This room is where I interviewed First Lady Michelle

Obama in February, and as I gazed out the windows and took in the view, I was struck by the immense legacy she and her family have inherited. I felt the weight of history, and I understood what she means when she says, as she often does, "This is not about us."

Yet for all the majesty of the White House, the First Lady has already infused it with a palpable ease; her presence makes the place feel open and approachable. When we sit down to talk, she seems as relaxed as she did when I first interviewed her and her husband in their Chicago apartment in 2004. "This room has the best light in the house," she tells me as we settle in, shoes off, on a comfortable sofa. "And there's pie here, too. The pie in the White House is dangerously good."

The Obamas packed up their belongings in Chicago and headed for Washington in early January so 10-year-old Malia and 7-year-old Sasha could get started at their new school. A few weeks later, Michelle and her mother, Marian Robinson, began settling the family into their new home. When I returned to Chicago after the inauguration, I spent the weekend thinking, "I wonder what the Obamas are doing now?" Later, when I was looking for some cough syrup in my medicine cabinet, I suddenly thought, "Michelle never has to go out to buy cough syrup again!" For the First Lady and her family, it's a whole new reality. As we talk, she tells me how they're adjusting—and what she's planning to do in her awesome new role.

The screenshot shows the Merriam-Webster online dictionary entry for the word "citation". At the top, the word "ci·ta·tion" is displayed with a speaker icon and the part of speech "noun" and phonetic transcription "\sī-'tā-shən\". Below this, the "Definition of CITATION" section is shown. It lists three definitions: 1. an official summons to appear (as before a court); 2. an act of quoting; especially: the citing of a previously settled case at law; and 3. MENTION: as a formal statement of the achievements of a person receiving an academic honor, and specific reference in a military dispatch to meritorious performance of duty. Below the definitions, the word "ci·ta·tion·al" is shown with the part of speech "adjective". At the bottom, there are links to see "citation" defined for English-language learners and for kids, and a section for "Examples of CITATION" with three bullet points: "He was issued a citation.", "He received a citation for reckless driving.", and "gave her a citation for bravery".

Blog: A regularly updated website including articles, comments, reviews or interviews.

*Blogs are not always reviewed for authority or impartiality. Make sure to evaluate them for credibility!

Structure: Last, First M. "Article Title." Blog Post Type.* Website/blog Title. Website Publisher, Date Month Year Published. Web. Date Month Year Accessed.

*"Blog post type" refers to what type of content you are using. Is it a standard blog on a website, an audio blog (podcast) or a vlog (video blog)?

Note: MLA7 does not require the URL/link in a website citation. However, some instructors still ask for it – double-check if your instructor requires it.

The screenshot shows a blog post on The New York Times website. The page header includes 'The New York Times', the date 'Thursday, March 28, 2013', and the section 'Politics'. A navigation bar lists various topics: WORLD, U.S., N.Y. / REGION, BUSINESS, TECHNOLOGY, SCIENCE, HEALTH, SPORTS, and OPINION. The main content area features a large graphic with the text 'FiveThirtyEight' and 'Nate Silver's Political Calculus'. Below this, the article title is 'Retirements Contributing to Largest Senate Turnover in Decades' by Micah Cohen, dated March 28, 2013, at 2:42 pm. The article text begins with 'The announcement on Tuesday by Senator Tim Johnson, Democrat of South Dakota, that he will not run for re-election in 2014 brings the total number of senators who have retired or resigned in the 113th Congress to eight.'
